Berlin Powers Rejoice Over Lucky Ending

Ludendorf Taken And Released On Parole After Reichswehr Gains Control

HITLER STILL AT LIBERTY

Official Munich Statement Frees Authorities Of Complicity Charge

BULLETIN

Berlin—It is rumored from Munich that General Ludendorf committed suicide immediately upon being paroled after his arrest. In connection with the abortive putsch in Munich, there was no verification of the rumor from any source, but Ludendorf's friends here say they are prepared for such a sequel to his failure and that the action would be wholly in conformity with the military code of honor as understood by the general.

The question of Adolph Hitler's whereabouts also still remains to be cleared up.

Berlin—The government of Premier Brüning is in complete control of Munich, according to latest reports from the Bavarian capital. Quiet has been restored in the city. A state of siege has been proclaimed throughout Bavaria.

The Tagessblatt says that a coup similar to that at Munich was attempted at Augsburg, Bavaria, but that the police immediately arrested and disarmed all insurgents.

At Nuremberg, also, the police disarmed the Nationalists. The burgomaster Friday sent an urgent request to Berlin for troops, but Chancellor Stresemann refused to comply.

The whereabouts of Adolph Hitler is unknown here, but General Ludendorf has been released after pledging his word that he would take no further part in the revolt. The disarmament of the Nationalists had almost been completed late Friday night.

A government proclamation issued in Munich today announced the establishment of summary tribunals and the institution of the curfew in the city and district of Mitten from 8 P. M. until 3 A. M. Cafes and similar places must close at 7 P. M.

STRESEMANN SATISFIED

Chancellor Stresemann and other government leaders give evidence of satisfaction over the outcome of the Munich putsch. They are inclined to view it as a blessing in disguise in that it definitely disposes of Ludendorf and Hitler as further sources of reactionary menace.

The chancellor believes that the swiftly liquidating insurrection has been a valuable asset to Germany abroad, demonstrating even Bavaria's determination to defend the German republic against attacks from within.

That a "Militarist" of the "mailed fist" variety might permit himself to be led away as a culprit implicated in a miniature beer hall revolution, alternately provokes amusement and disgust in official and political quarters. While the military leaders who were formerly associated with him on the German general staff are inclined to give him their sympathy.

CRUELTY OF HIGH TREASON

Opinion here holds that Ludendorf is guilty of high treason under which charge he is answerable to the special court established for the defense of the republic. In this case he would face a severe prison sentence or even the death penalty.

A long official statement has come out of Munich designed to convince the public that Dr. Von Kahr, General Von Lusser and other Bavarian officials entered into the plans of the Hitlerites only under duress.

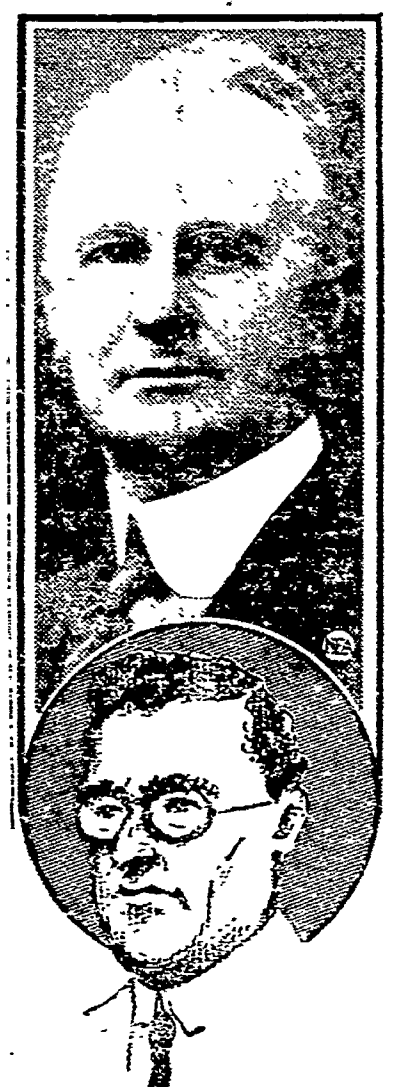

"They were compelled at the point of a pistol to cooperate," says the statement, "and they gave the assurances required of them because they were convinced that only united action would secure the maintenance of Bavarian state authority. Their assent apparently was given with the object of regaining their freedom of action."

FIRE DESTROYS STATION AND FREIGHT AT MUSCADO

By Associated Press

Prairie Du Chien—Fire of unknown origin Friday destroyed the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad station, a carload of potatoes and a part of a carload of poultry at Muscado, according to advices received here Saturday. A carload of cheese which was on the track near the station was also damaged. Express and baggage in the station was also destroyed.

GERMANY ASKS ALLIES TO PUT OFF CONTROL

Berlin Can't Guarantee Safety For Officers Of French And Belgians

Berlin—Germany has requested the allies to postpone the resumption and extension of military control by the commission of allied officers.

According to the Tagessblatt, the government in its reply to the recent note of the Interallied Council of Ambassadors refused to authorize the proposed control, asserting that the tension of the people over the Ruhr question and the general economic distress throughout the country did not allow the government to guarantee the security of the French and Belgian military officials.

The council's note reiterated a request for a statement of the measures Germany intended to take to insure the functioning of the Interallied Military Control commission.

The note was not made public but press dispatches said the commission notified Berlin that control operations would be extended to all of Germany, including Bavaria. The commission also mentioned coercive measures which the allies were prepared to apply in case the demands were not met.

EMERGENCY BOARD TO ACT THURSDAY

Madison—The state emergency board adjourned late Friday after hearing claims of educational institutions for emergency appropriations without taking final action on the request.

Governor Blaine announced the board will meet again next Thursday to determine final action. Arguments for the emergency appropriations were made by representatives of the state university, which is asking for over $300,000, and normal regents throughout the afternoon. The normals are seeking over $200,000. On the action of the board is expected to depend the question of calling a special session of the legislature.

Price Of Gas Cut 2 Cents Here Today

The high cost of motoring received another wallop Saturday morning when the oil companies announced a 2 cent reduction in the price of gasoline. The cut is effective at filling stations. A similar reduction was made in all middlewestern states, it was said.

Retail gasoline prices announced by the companies operating here are:

Standard Oil Co. 17.6 and 14.6; Wadham Oil Co. 19 and 15.1; DeBauer Oil Co. 17.6 and 14.6; Consumers company 20.6 and 16.6.

Present conditions in the wholesale gasoline market were cited by the Standard Oil Co. in making the cut. Independents say they have been "fighting for the reduction for four months. The law of supply and demand has been a large factor in bringing about the price reduction," they said.

LEGION CHIEF LAUDS FORMER HEAD IN TALK

Quinn Says Veteran Organization Must Look After Maimed Soldiers

By Associated Press

Cincinnati, O.—Frederic W. Galbraith, late commander of the American Legion who was killed in an automobile accident in Indianapolis several years ago, was called a "martyr to patriotic service" by John Quinn, president national commander of the organization in an address here Saturday. He was speaking at the dedication exercises of the Galbraith memorial.

Galbraith's later life was dedicated to legion principles, Commander Quinn said. "He would have said that legionism demanded hospitalization for our disabled comrades. He would have said that it demanded adjusted compensation for the millions whose economic disability has not yet been set right by the nation. He would have said that legionism demanded a keener appreciation of our patriotic rights and duties—which is Americanism."

"To the American Legion is the charge that the needs and wants of the maimed and disabled shall be cared for," the speaker declared.

Saturday Conclave Expected To Organize Overseas Unit Permanently

By Associated Press

Chicago—Workers in the Y. M. C. A. who served overseas during the World War met Saturday night for a reunion, the outcome of which is expected to be a permanent organization of every Y. M. C. A. outfit that saw service in France.

For himself he was through with public offices. As before he went abroad, he was still opposed to the United States entering the league of nations and any interpretation that President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes are working for that end now is, in his opinion, erroneous.

Radio Will Broadcast Wilson Armistice Talk

Washington—Woodrow Wilson's voice will be heard in the far corners of the country.

From his study, the former president will address the nation by radio on "the significance of Armistice day." He is expected to begin a ten minute talk at 8:23 p. m. eastern time.

Spoken into a microphone, Mr. Wilson's words will be broadcast by the WCAP radio station here on a wave length of 469 meters. They also will be carried over a telephone wire to New York city, amplified there and distributed by WEAF on a 496 meter wave length. Radio experts believe the message will be heard through receiving sets in all sections of the United States.

Tonight's address probably will be followed Sunday by another talk by Mr. Wilson to admirers who will make their annual Armistice day pilgrimage to his 8-st home. Delegations from a number of cities have made arrangements to march to the former president's residence during the afternoon.

It has agreed to greet his visitors from the front steps and is expected to deliver a brief extemporaneous address. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who was a member of Mr. Wilson's cabinet will act as spokesman for the callers.

HARVEY BACK HOME WITH CLEAN SLATE

Returning Ambassador Declines To Talk On 1924 Presidential Race

By Associated Press

New York—With the conviction that he has accomplished all his tasks abroad—had "wiped the slate clean"—as he expressed it—George Harvey, retiring American ambassador to the Court of St. James, returned home late Friday on the Aquitania, hungry for the home-cooking of his aunt, Hannah Martin, who lives in Peacham, Vt.

Mr. Harvey was his typical self to reporters who interviewed him coming up the bay—jovial one minute, sarcastically humorous the next and finally saying what was chiefly on his mind with unmistakable seriousness.

He retired, he said, because he wanted to come home, but he would not say whether he would aid any candidate in the 1924 presidential campaign.

For himself he was through with public offices. As before he went abroad, he was still opposed to the United States entering the league of nations and any interpretation that President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes are working for that end now is, in his opinion, erroneous.

FORMER WIFE OF SPRANGER KNEW OF OLD SLAYING

Woman Alleged To Have Confessed Knowledge Of Bartender's Death

By Associated Press

Fergus Falls, Minn.—Mrs. H. W. Winter of Orville near here, divorced wife of Herman Spranger, who is alleged to have confessed his knowledge of a murder near Park Falls, Wis., 13 years ago, in a sworn statement here Saturday said her former husband had told her of the killing at that time.

Spranger, it is alleged, made his statements to Kenosha-co officials at Kenosha, Wis., while on a sick bed several weeks ago, in which he said he had full knowledge of the slaying of a bartender named Francis, near Park Falls in 1910. Unable to speak fluently because of his critical condition, Spranger could give Wisconsin officials but a meagre report of the killing at that time.

HUSBAND TOLD STORY

In her statement Saturday Mrs. Winter said that her former husband had told her that "he had finished a bartender so he would never speak another word" and that if she would mention the fact he would kill her and the children. She further stated that she did not learn the bartender's name, except that his Christian name was "Francis."

Mrs. Winter said that Spranger had visited a roadhouse near Park Falls in February, 1910, that he went on a Saturday night and his team came home alone Sunday. He followed later, she continued, and was under the influence of liquor. She also said that he was in a battered condition and his clothes were smeared with blood.

Frederic, Ill.—A jury in federal court Friday night returned a verdict of not guilty of John C. Krause and Jesse Patton, Beloit, Wis., garage men, who were charged with receiving property stolen from the United States government. They were accused of buying about 500 blankets that had been stolen from Camp Grant in 1922. The defendants admitted buying the blankets but denied that they knew they had been stolen.

The clerk opened the paper. It read:

"I, Gertrude Hoffman, do hereby agree that in case I should bring suit for divorce or in case Edward C. Becker, my betrothed, should bring suit for divorce and said divorce should be granted, that I will accept the sum of $5,000 as full payment of all claims for alimony, attorneys' fees and court costs and the said Edward C. Becker does hereby agree to pay said sum of $5,000 in full for alimony, attorneys' fees and court costs."

The marriage license was issued.

Washington Officials Decline To Predict What Future Will Bring

By Associated Press

Washington—Restrictions insisted upon by France on the proposed inquiry by experts into Germany's economic condition would render such an effort to solve the reparations problem useless and futile, in the opinion of the Washington government.

This decision was reached late Friday after the situation had been discussed during the day by President Coolidge with his cabinet and Ambassador Jusserand at a conference with Secretary Hughes and explained in detail the nature of the French limitations.

The result was that word was sent to Premier Poincare, through the ambassador, that his determination to restrict the scope of the inquiry, administration officials here believe, would frustrate the object of the United States in offering the allies aid in coming about an adjustment.

What the future might bring for officials here declined to predict.

CROWN PRINCE LEAVES EXILE FOR OLD HOME

Dutch Government Officially Announces Departure Of Kaiser's Son

Amsterdam—The Dutch government officially announced Saturday that former crown prince Frederick William of Germany crossed the German frontier Saturday morning enroute to Oels, Upper Silesia. The estate to which he recently expressed a desire to retire is located at Oels.

The Exchange Telegraph account of the former crown prince's departure says he left the Island of Wieringen at 4:30 o'clock. Two big motor cars awaited him in the village of Eolke, half on the mainland. Frederick William entered the first car, accompanied by Burghard von Wieringen, while his luggage was loaded in the second. Both cars drove off at daylight.

Before leaving Wieringen, Frederick William addressed a letter to the population expressing his gratitude for the friends he had made during his years of exile and for the hospitality shown him.

It is considered here that the Dutch government had no right to detain him in Holland and that his departure was quite legal and that it will not involve Holland in any diplomatic conflict. It none the less has caused a sensation.

HAD PERMISSION

The Hague—It is officially stated that both the Dutch and German governments granted former Crown Prince Frederick William permission to return to Germany.

It would appear that the crown prince's resolution to leave was taken after the German government had notified him, a few weeks ago, that his return would not be opposed and after he was provided, as a result, with the necessary German passports.

POINCARÉ PROTESTS

Paris—A note signed by Premier Poincaré as president of the Allied Council of Ambassadors was delivered to the German charge d'affaires Friday protesting against the return of former Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany.

Holland may not be regarded as a sufficiently secure retreat for former Emperor William of Germany in view of the flight of former Crown Prince, it was said Saturday at the foreign office and a second St. Helena may be chosen for him.

COUPLE ADVANCED IN YEARS, DIVORCED

An absolute divorce was awarded by Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Friday to Mrs. Margaret Alward, Kaukauna, from her husband, Charles Alward, also of Kaukauna. Suit for annulment of the marriage bonds was brought on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Alward, by order of the court, will receive a cash settlement of $500 to defray the attorney's fees and other costs of the action. The parties, both past 40 years, were married in Milwaukee on July 24, 1918, but separated on July 21 of the year.

I SPIED TODAY

FORD FOR PRESIDENT, TOO?

Thursday noon at the corner of Omstead and College a rapidly driven silver came to a short stop at the arterial sign, and the sudden swivel caused a rear tire to "blow" with a loud report. A few moments later I was surprised to see Louis rattling down the avenue, the tire having become released from the rim, and being towed by the rear axle. All that is known is that there are housing, bouncing along merrily. Flippers? You simply can't stop 'em. J. A. K.

DISAPPOINTED WOMEN

About 8:20 Thursday evening, I saw three women coming out of Lawrence conservatory. You could tell by the way they walked that they were mad about something. When I could hear what they were talking about, I knew why they were excited and I don't know what I blame them. They had come to hear a recital, and for some reason unknown to them the recital had been called off. C. O. B.

Flashes Out Of The Air

SATURDAY PROGRAM

Woodrow Wilson's radio address, "The Significance of Armistice Day," scheduled at about 7 p. m., will be broadcast from his Washington home by WCAP (482) Washington, and WEAF (482) New York. Indiana football game, 2 p. m., broadcast by KTW from Stagg field, "Lucia di Lammermoor," by the Chicago Civic Grand Opera company, Auditorium, broadcast by KTW beginning at 8 o'clock. WPAQ—49: 7:45, 10, concerts. WMAQ—8:15, American Legion program, 8, musical review from Chicago theater. WIAZ—10:2 a. m., musical program.

Despite the daily publication of radio broadcasting programs and the numerous periodicals on the subject, there are some who wonder whether radio still is as popular as ever.

Is it? Well, think of at least 2,000,000 radio receiving sets in use in this country—one for every 10 families. Then remember that the popular use of radio is only about two years old, and you may get only a faint idea of the popularity of radio.

Compare this with the other popular musical entertainment—the phonograph. There are 12,000,000 of these in the United States accumulated through three decades of development. That has become so popular that it is now taken as a generally accepted piece of furniture in nearly every home.

FAST AUDIENCE

Broadcasting stations—500 of them, in this country—send out their programs daily with perfect assurance that they are being heard by thousands of listeners far and near. They get encouraging letters, telegrams, and telephone calls, but the audience, they say, is not in the least commensurate with the audience.

Many fans never write in. Like the phonograph, radio is being taken incidentally in the lives of many fans. Like the phonograph, the set is not touched some evenings, and sometimes the dials aren't set for days at a time. But the receiving set is there, just like the phonograph, ready for entertainment—new entertainment whenever wanted.

Interference persists in annoying radio fans. Static is still to be eliminated. Amateurs who have not yet discarded the ancient spark still bother listeners with their crackling. Local interferences add to the general annoyance.

Yet radio fans have increased—if you consider only the 2,000,000 sets accounted for—at the rate of about a million a year.

What will it be when the radio engineers will have succeeded in correcting some of the difficulties now encountered?

CREDIT GOVERNMENT

Much credit for this immense popularity in radio goes to our government. No other country has been so liberal, and indeed so encouraging, to radio listeners. The only limits set on radio in this country are concerned with transmission. Anyone, without restriction, may put up a radio receiving set. The United States is the only country, except certain parts of Canada, that hasn't put any limitation on the use of receiving sets.

In fact, this country encourages radio reception, through its own broadcasting of market and farm news, educational, and other information. The Department of the Interior has its own radio broadcasting department, and other large government departments are following its example.

Thus, the people of the United States have every encouragement to adopt radio and develop its popularity. There is no cause for waning of interest.

GLADSTONE'S rule, even in his older years was that of a "twice" as he termed it, at public worship. Church going he said was not a matter of fancy for a Christian; it is his duty for the work's sake. No public spirited disciple had a moral right to be absent except for a good cause, he often asserted, from public worship.

OLIVER WENDALL HOLMES said:

"I am a regular church-goer. I should go for various reasons if I did not love it, but I am fortunate enough to find great pleasure in the midst of devout multitudes whether I can accept all their creeds or not. For I find that there is in the corner of my heart a little plant called Reverence, which wants to be watered about once a week."

FISCHER'S APPLETON AMUSEMENT PAGE

Never in the history of the motion picture industry has a production been accorded such unstinted praise at the hands of critics from coast to coast as was "Merry-Go-Round," the Universal-Super-Jewel, which is booked for Fischer's Appleton Theatre here on Monday. Especially interesting was the approval of the principals and featured members of the cast and of the directorship. It proved a revelation alike to the industry and to the theatre-goers. Some of the unusual points in connection with this picture are:

The discovery of a new star—Mary Philbin, who only a few short years ago was a Chicago high school girl. Some one entered her in a beauty contest run by the Hearst newspapers, and when it was over she was found to be second choice. Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation, saw her photograph and arranged a screen test, which she passed satisfactorily. The dainty little miss was then started on a severe course of training in small parts, gradually increasing in importance until finally she was deemed ready for stardom.

She can work in the "Merry-Go-Round" with the best wishes and confidence of the entire studios, but even here in a sanguine admirer were unprepared for the exceptional portrayal she gives in the pathetic role of a little orphan grinder on the Prater, the Cony Island of Vienna.

In selecting the artists the casting director spent many weeks in going over lists of available players in order to secure the most genuine admirers were unprepared for the exceptional portrayal she gives in the pathetic role of a little orphan grinder on the Prater, the Cony Island of Vienna.

athorne, Dale Fuller, Anton Vaverka, Maude George, Dorothy Wallace are among other well-known players in featured roles.

Nine months were required for the building of the sets, rehearsals and actual shooting, and more than one thousand extras were engaged during the greater part of that period. In order that each detail of the picture would be absolutely true to life as it was lived in Vienna during the festive days just preceding the world war, Director Rupert Julian sent a staff of specialists to that city to take photographs and obtain data on the city shown in the film. The most noteworthy set in the picture, and one of the greatest pieces of engineering work ever done in connection with the production of the picture, was the reproduction at Universal City of the Prater. So marvelous was the likeness that many of the visitors at the film capital had, who had visited the original, stated that they easily could imagine that they were in Vienna once more.

Another unusual happening was the importation of the gold-trimmed carriage and harness formerly used by King Charles of Austria, and also of the army officers' uniforms. In order to obtain these it was necessary for Universal to file a bond with the Austrian Government and also take out life insurance policy from Lloyds at London.

Tartar Maid Is Miss Dalton In Big New Film

Athletic Paramount Star Has Fine Role in "The Law of the Lawless"

DOROTHY DALTON in "The Law of the Lawless," with Theodore Kosloff, Charles De Roche and Tully Marshall in featured roles, has a role that suits her perfectly and one she likes immensely. She is seen as a Tartar girl, and this enables her to wear the picturesque costumes of the Roumanian hills, which enhance her charm and give the colorful effect which always registers so admirably on the screen. Besides, the part is one which gives Miss Dalton an opportunity for the display of the vivid acting, fiery, almost primitive in character, for which she is famed.

Theodore Kosloff is seen cast in a Tartar role and to his strong personality, artistic perception and dramatic force lend themselves perfectly.

Charles de Roche is excellently cast as a gypsy chieftain. His splendid physique, his strong features, his immense acting, all come into play in this part. Tully Marshall is seen as a village money lender. Fred Huntley and Margaret Loomis also are in the cast; and the latter, always a favorite, brings to her characteristic beauty, charm and grace, as well as her ability to act.

The story of "The Law of the Lawless," which will be seen at Fischer's Appleton Theatre for 4 days beginning Friday next, deals with a Tartar girl who is sold at auction in payment of her father's debts and bought by a gypsy chieftain. He compels her to marry him and his many qualities soon prompt her to love him. When her husband is captured by her countrymen, she goes to his rescue with highly dramatic results.

Fiske O'Hara Coming

Fiske O'Hara with his engaging smile is scheduled for early appearance at Fischer's Appleton in his latest and what critics concede to be his greatest success "Jack of Hearts." Under the direction of Augustus Platon, "Jack of Hearts" is a tale in a prologue and three acts, written by DeWitt Newing and produced by all the Pitou artistry. The supporting company is of its usual excellence and the happy Fiske is said to have never given a more tellingly sustained performance in his career, bringing to the part of Jack Murnane, in which he appears, variety and a sufficiently convincing security. His new songs are rendered with all the art and finish that so experienced a singer as Fiske O'Hara commands.

WELL BALANCED VAUDEVILLE BILL FOR SUNDAY

In keeping with Fischer's Appleton policy another well balanced program is offered Vaudeville fans for this Sunday.

The Todesca's have developed a sensational cycle of the big feature of which is speed, thrills and novelty. In their repertoire are numbered several tricks that are not only original but exclusive. Mr. Todesca claims to be the only cyclist doing his balancing feats while performing on the high pedestal, and his stunt of carrying the lady of the act, seated in a chair, in his teeth while operating a cycle is one of his exclusive terrors.

Doc Raines & Eunice Avey, the former a splendid comedian of the bucolic type, whose impersonation of a farmer boy who studies his city ways through catalogue advertisements distributed by mail order houses is recognized as a true to nature prototype of a character often seen in cities ambling contentedly up and down the principal streets thinking in sighs and groans that amaze him, his curiosity is unbounded while his inquisitiveness is charmingly innocent, yet his verdant looks and mannerism cloak a most likable fun-loving disposition, keen wit and laughable eccentricities, all of which is brought out most amusingly by his clever partner, Eunice Avey, a winsomely pretty and exceedingly attractive young comedienne in a comedy skit they call "Some Simps."

"Honolulu Bound" is a topical offering explained as "A Nautical Trivialty with Songs and Dances." The skit is offered in two big scenes, and there are two men and three girls in the company. The featured number is the irrepressible comedian, Lawrence Richards.

A contrast in appearances will be offered by Moore & Shy. One member of this duo is less than four feet tall with an avoirdupois of 37. They will sing, dance, talk and introduce some knockabout anecdotes that are designated a scream. Laughs continue from start to finish, usually through the little man setting the worst of each encounter. The act comes here direct after playing some of the largest theatres in the country, where it scores a pronounced hit. Sinclair, xylophonist and the Jenner Brothers in Aerial Acrobacy round out a well balanced program.

Big Crowd Is Thrilled By Graveure

Noted Baritone Given Enthusiastic Reception By Appleton Audience

The thing for which music lovers in Appleton have been waiting and striving for years almost happened on Friday evening after the thoroughly enjoyable program which was presented by Louis Graveure, baritone. Mr. Graveure had as demonstrative an audience as so splendid an artist ever can hope for in Appleton and for a few moments it seemed that for once the crowd would remain seated for a second and perhaps a third final encore. It was rewarded with "Ship Mates O' Mine" after the final group of songs, but only a few persisted in applause after that; the rest hurried away.

To the majority of the people who were at this first number of the Community Artistic series, the description of how Graveure delights his audience. While his operatic selections are the most stupendous achievements musically, it is with his tuneful and well chosen songs that he wins storms of applause. Practically every encore which he was called back after every group of songs, was a requested number.

It was to the satisfaction of the audience that with the encore numbers and those which he had again included in his program, the baritone sang all the favorites of his last year's program. At the request of each song which the people had learned to enjoy from Graveure's last presentation there was a heightening of interest and appreciation that could be felt not only by the artist but by the audience as well.

Who can arise from a Graveure concert with getting the beauty and artistry of that baritone voice in selections like "Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak, "Three Fishers Went Sailing," "Elegie," Massenet and "The Trumpet" by Arle Dix? Mr. Graveure included in his program that interesting bird's counting song from the "Songs of the Vermont Hills" and "Mary," an old Scottish number in second group. For "Obstinat" by Fontenailles, Mr. Graveure substituted Massenet's "Elegie." His interpretation of it was exquisite. The lovely Irish folk song "The Leprechaun" was included in the final group.

The first encore number was Handel's "Largo" the second "Sylvia" by Oey Speaks, the third "Vale" by Kennedy Russell and the final one, "Ship Mates O' Mine." Each one brought back to those who had been listening them before the memory of that other concert when the baritone first made his Appleton friends.

Arpad Sandor, the baritone's accompanist showed himself to be a pianist of great merit when he played the Polonaise in E flat by Liszt. His

A Complete Institution

The last few years have brought about a completeness in Funeral Directing but little realized by the general public. Beautiful buildings have replaced less desirable former quarters. The finest and most modern equipment has been added for reverently and perfectly caring for those just departed this life, and for making more precious and sacred the memory of those rites attending that period.

The Beyer Funeral Home has become noted far and wide—in building, personnel, and equipment—for having almost attained the ideal in these many respects. As such, it merits the patronage of every one in Appleton and the country we serve whenever in need of one of our profession.

EMME IS OPPOSED TO BIBLE READING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Appleton Man Tells State Mentors Religious Education Is Task Of Church

Vital religious training is not assured by merely reading the Bible in the public school, was the declaration of Dr. E. D. Emme, Appleton, superintendent of religious education for the Methodist Episcopal church in an address on Friday before the moral education section of the seventeenth annual convention of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association, in session in Milwaukee.

To make it effective or valuable, the reading of the Bible should be supplemented by comment and instruction by competent teachers of religious knowledge, according to the speaker. For the reason that mere teaching of the Bible without comment is not assurance of vital religious teaching, Dr. Emme stated he was opposed to the Bible in the public schools, at least through the Junior high school for the following reasons:

- (a) The reading of any curriculum material without comment is not teaching. Where questions can not be raised and the proper motivation of the lesson obtained, there is no successful learning.
- (b) Vital religion is more concerned about a life than a book. To develop a wholesome religious life there must be expression. The aim of religious education is more than Biblical knowledge. What is desired is to create religious convictions, attitudes, loyalties, questions, discussions, assignments, these are necessary to the prosecution of such aims.
- (c) Denominational differences, religious traditions, etc., are so varied that misunderstandings are very possible. If an attempt is made to vitally motivate the Book for the pupils, a greater danger is that many adults would consider such a "make shift" adequate religious instruction.
- (d) Wisconsin Mail Service.
- (e) Such use of the sacred Book reduces it to a daily use that leads to irreverence on the part of many boys and girls because it is considered meaningless.

While opposed to mere reading of the Bible in the public schools, Dr. Emme stated his position was unqualifiedly for religious education in its proper place, which he said, was in the church. In this connection the speaker said:

TASK OF CHURCH
"Religious instruction is clearly the task of the church. It is recognized that to teach morality is the task of the public school. And without entering into any metaphysical argument over the distinction between morality and religion, it must be stated that it is the duty of the church to supplement the public school in its teaching of morality with vital religious education."

Discussing the Appleton plan, of which he is the originator, Dr. Emme said the plan is simple and flexible, thus making it possible to meet the needs of nearly all communities.

Among other things the plan suggests, according to Dr. Emme, "fitness for the task" rather than denominational affiliation determines the choice of officers while denominational recognition is assured by the minister and two laymen from each church being on the council.

All religious forces can cooperate on this plan, according to Dr. Emme, who asserted those of the Protestant Evangelical faith can use the same teachers and the same curriculum. Other churches, he said, can carry on the work in their own churches or parochial schools.

In addition, Dr. Emme pointed out the whole program is built upon the churches; fairness to all the churches; and the state is safeguarded; higher educational standards are maintained and the unchurched youth of the city are more likely to find a place for religious instruction and thus eventually in line with some church than if there were no week-day religious education.

Girls Learn Practical Cooking In Schools Here

Domestic Science Classes Train Young Women In House Keeping Duties

Fudge: That's what a great many people said when the domestic science course was introduced into public schools. People felt that the place to learn cooking and home art was in the home; that it had no place in a school curriculum. Even now the impression is quite general that girls are being taught very little "practical cooking."

The reporter who found her way into the domestic science department of the high school was assailed with the pleasant odor of frying griddle cakes and Boston brown bread. The girls had made griddle cakes for their class problem and the brown bread was for a luncheon they were planning to serve.

LEARN MEAL MAKING
When questioned about the modern methods of teaching cooking, Miss Catherine Spence of the home economics department of the high school replied that nowadays students are not taught cooking alone, but the lessons consist of meal making—the preparation of all the articles that go to make one complete meal. The girls learn to combine things that go well together and to see that the food they cook is nourishing and healthful. The things they make depend a great deal upon the food the pupils are accustomed to in their homes. An effort is made to teach the kind of food that is commonly prepared in this locality and not dishes that one finds in an exclusive restaurant.

SIMPLE THINGS FIRST
The class makes its first attempt at simple breakfasts consisting of toast, fruit and coffee and later works up to the cooking of cereals and heavier breakfast foods. Luncheons, suppers and dinner follow as the girls grow more skill in preparation.

The same story was true at the Vocational school, Miss Mabel Burke, head of the domestic science department, said that, the cooking in the school depended upon meal planning and that the girls are taught first to make easy things, then to serve them in a simple meal. If they finished the three year course they are able to prepare big dinners or supervise the serving of banquets.

The girls draw lots to decide which shall be the guests and which shall be the servers when a luncheon is served. This not only teaches them culinary art, but shows them how to set a table and instruct them in correct table etiquette. Family size portions are prepared in all instances.

At Christmas time the girls make fruit cakes and mince meat to sell as well as Christmas cookies and candies. The girls may purchase the materials and keep the product if they wish.

ON THE SCREEN

ASHES OF VENGEANCE
Famous historic characters have more than once been made the subject of a photoplay drama. Few are the instances, however, where a picture actor has given such a brilliant portrayal of an historic character as to be called upon to play it in an altogether different picture. Josephine Crowell, celebrated film mother, is the exception.

Miss Crowell has created mother roles in most of the great screen plays of the last decade. She now finds herself a second time playing the part of the unscrupulous mother of Charles IX., Catherine de Medici, in Norma Talmadge's 15th century romance, "Ashes of Vengeance," a First National picture, which was filmed under Frank Lloyd's direction for Joseph M. Schenck Productions, and which will be presented at Elite Theatre, commencing Monday.

Film fans will readily recall the work of Josephine Crowell in D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance." It was one of the memorable character impersonations of all time. Even in the bewildering entanglement of plot of that complicated production it stood out with effective, life-like destruction.

It was a remarkable exposition of a cunning, ambition-mad woman. In this spectacle, though, it was only an outstanding dramatic episode in a kaleidoscope of action. But to the dramatic mind it loomed as an inviting counterpart for a more sublime romance.

In "Ashes of Vengeance" the pure "dramatic possibilities of the role are given strong emphasis. In the atmosphere of intrigue which Catherine de Medici exudes, the poignant passions of Norma Talmadge and Conway Tearle as the lovers, stand out in striking relief. Much of the credit for this effect is due to the tone imparted to the role by Miss Crowell's understanding portrayal.

"Ashes of Vengeance" in which Miss Crowell appears with Norma Talmadge, was directed by Frank Lloyd for release by Producer Joseph M. Schenck through Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

POWERFUL KEENAN ROLE IN "BIG BUSINESS" STORY
In "Ruler of the Road," showing at the New Bijou Theatre Sunday, Frank Keenan presents a vivid characterization of a railroad president who grags victory out of disaster by the sheer strength of his will and personality. It is a powerful drama.

WILD IN DEMAND AS SPEAKER ON WORLD SUBJECTS

Milwaukee Attorney, Who Talks Here Sunday Night, Is Student Of History

One of the proudest possessions of Attorney Robert Wild of Milwaukee, who speaks at the Peoples forum in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening is his splendid library which is said to be one of the finest private-owned collections of books in the state. The library contains about 7,000 books, mostly political science and history. In this library Mr. Wild spends most of his time and because of his great background of history and politics he is much in demand as a speaker on subjects which require a thorough knowledge of those sciences.

Mr. Wild will discuss the German version of the Ruhr invasion at the forum. Last week the French version was given by Prof. Pluman B. Potter of the University of Wisconsin. It is the forum's intention to present both sides of all controversial subjects. The meeting opens at 7:30 with a musical program, followed by the speaker at about 8 o'clock. Admission is free but a collection will be taken to defray expenses. The average cost of the lectures is $55.

showing the possibilities which may permit one railroad organization to utterly ruin a rival company for purely selfish motives, thereby causing the public great inconvenience and the stockholders great financial loss.

"THE HAUNTED VALLEY"
Mysterious human species lurk and bring new twists to the fascinating story of Ruth Roland's new Pathé serial, "Haunted Valley," in "The Radio Trap," the eighth episode which will be shown Sunday at the New Bijou theatre. The radio spectroscopy "rays a large part in the chapter, throwing terror into the hearts of the hero and heroine by its amazing power. A thrilling climax is provided when Ruth is imprisoned in a cavern and finds a radio telephone. She gets in connection with Craig, her sweetheart, only to have Mallinson break the young man's outfit before he can locate the girl he loves.

A Harold Lloyd comedy on the same bill rounds out 4 big Sunday show.

Appleton Man Believed To Be Logical Republican Candidate In 1924

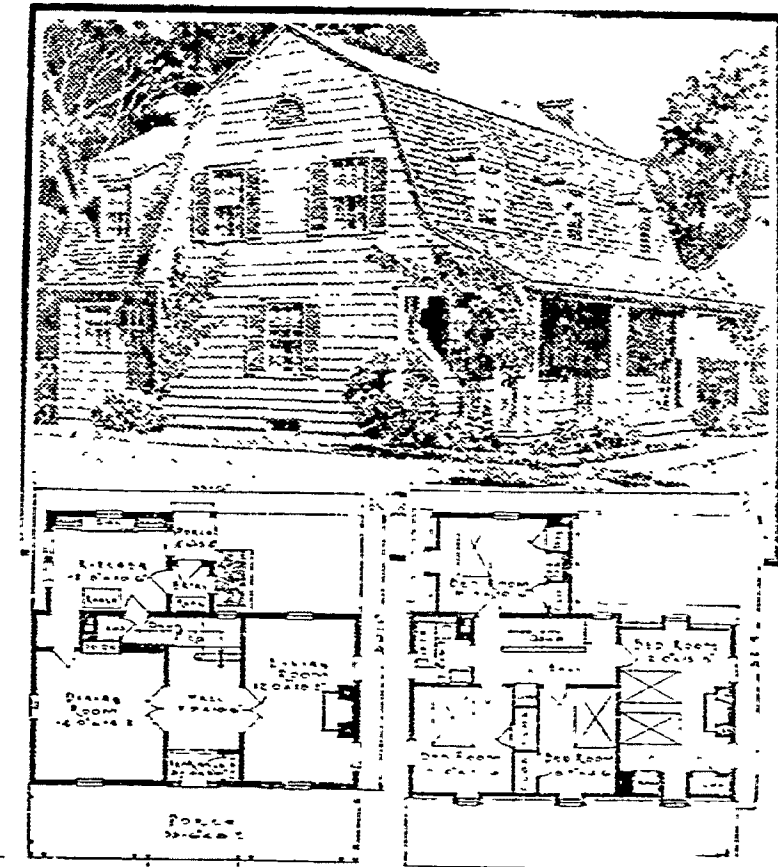

Although the 1924 election is a year removed and much water will flow over the political dams before the next campaign gets well underway, politicians in the Fourteenth senatorial district are considering candidates to be submitted to the voters a year from this month. Among Kuckuk, Shawano, who is completing his second term in the state senate, has definitely announced. It is understood here, that he will not be a candidate for reelection. Mr. Kuckuk, so it is reported, did not wish to be a candidate three years ago, but consented to make the campaign when his friends insisted that he serve another term. Mr. Kuckuk was in Europe when he was placed in nomination.

COMBINE ON CATLIN

With Mr. Kuckuk definitely out of the contest, his friends are casting about for a suitable candidate. They are looking over possible senatorial timber and all of them—or most all of them at least—are arriving at the same conclusion—that Attorney Mark Catlin of Appleton, former member of the assembly, is the logical choice. Whether Mr. Catlin would accept the nomination if it were tendered him is problematical. He likes legislative service but he has had his fling at it. A legislator in Wisconsin serves the people at a great sacrifice to himself. The salary doesn't even pay his living expenses while in Madison, to say nothing of paying for his time. A state legislator practically donates his time and pays a portion of his expenses in order to serve the people. Whether Catlin will be willing to make this sacrifice again is a question.

It is believed, however, that there is a desire of a sufficient number of people that Mr. Catlin become a candidate, he will permit his name to be used. And present indications are that there will be the demand. Mr. Catlin attracted statewide attention while in the assembly where he became a floor leader within a few weeks after starting his first term. This in itself was something almost unheard in legislative circles. Because of that record, leaders in political thought here, believe Mr. Catlin should be induced to enter the campaign and they already are laying their plans to bring this about.

Dutch Colonial Home Like This For $8,890

PLANS FOR THIS SEVEN-ROOM HOME WERE FURNISHED BY THE CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU, CLINTON, IA.

Perhaps no other type of house, and sideboard are of beautiful colonial has enjoyed so rapid a rise in design that are masterpieces of the mind in recent years as the Dutch colonial. And with perfectly good reason, for it has a homelike charm that is most alluring. Here is a particularly good example of this style, in a seven-room home with a huge, sheltered front porch. Trellised posts add to the attractiveness of the spacious veranda, included under the graceful sweep of the roof. A six-panel colonial door with sidelights forms the main entrance, leading to the central hall with vestibule and coat closet. French doors at each side lead to living room and dining room respectively. In mahogany and ivory, the woodwork is of ivory-enameled birch and fireplace ordinary halls by an outside window.

This home can be built for $8,890, including heating wiring and plumbing, according to its designers, the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Ia. The price may vary slightly in different localities.

Farm-City Forum Speaker Noted Badger Farm Leader

Wisconsin's outstanding farm leader, Dean H. L. Russell, head of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, will be the speaker at the farm-city forum dinner of the chamber of commerce in Eagle hall Tuesday, Nov. 20. Every farmer in the county will have a chance to hear him and the chamber of commerce is urging everyone to set aside this evening. No man is better able than Dean Russell to tell how the city and the rural community can and should cooperate. His address is expected to be the most valuable of the series which have been given at the get-together meetings of farmers and businessmen during the last few months. Wives of the framers also will be invited to attend. The dinner is to be complimentary to those outside the city, and the only requirement is that they notify the chamber of commerce by Saturday, Nov. 17, of their intention to be present. This is done in order to know the number of dinner reservations. Reservation may be made by telephone to No. 2701 or by mail to the chamber of commerce. This will be one of the biggest all community events that has been staged by the chamber of commerce. The program at the dinner will include the address by Dean Russell, a talk by Paul O. Nyhus of Madison, formerly farm agent of the First National bank of Appleton, community singing led by Dr. Earl L. Baker of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, and entertainment by C. F. Pratt of Sheboygan. A motion picture of the meat packing industry also will be shown.

PUPILS AT WORK ON PAPER ESSAYS

Only Ten Days Remain To Compete For Chamber Of Commerce Prize Of $10

Bodies, magazines and circular matter that describe paper-making are getting good usage now by pupils of the various schools of the county who are working for the $10 prize offered by the chamber of commerce for the best essay on "How Paper is Manufactured." Students have only ten days more in which to complete their articles, which are to be no more than 250 words in length, preferably less. There is so much data available, and so many pupils are familiar with the paper industry that it is believed large numbers of essays will be submitted. Nov. 20 is the last date on which the compositions may be received in. They are to be deposited at the chamber of commerce with no name on the manuscript, but with an envelope attached containing a slip with name, address and school of the writer. Judges will mark the essays immediately after Nov. 20 so the winner of the $10 prize may be announced on Nov. 24, the closing day of the manufacturers' and jobbers' exposition of the United Commercial Travelers.

GUARD NEEDS 10 MEN TO REACH ITS QUOTA

Appleton's unit of the Wisconsin National Guard, Company D, 107th Infantry needs ten men to complete its quota in the state-wide recruiting campaign, which ends Nov. 30. The state campaign is accomplishing excellent results, according to military officers. One of the recent features of the recruiting activities was the authorization of a recruiting ribbon which is awarded for conspicuous work as a recruiter. The ribbon is given to all men who obtain more than three recruits during the year. Capt. E. F. Grundeman has promised Co. D a banquet when it has been recruited to full strength. Prizes and insignia for pistol marksmanship will be presented at the banquet.

Ain't Enough Money In U. S. To Go Around

Broke? Say I! But god's man, it's no wonder we're broke and we must have a lot of company. What? Well, the September report on paper currency shows that there is only $4,141,500,254 in circulation for all of us, something over 100,000,000, aren't we? Well, just figure it out for yourself with some of the fellows having so much, it's no wonder that you and I have none.

And what do you think? Part of that money is in $10.00 notes, the bulk of which I never saw. There are some $5.00 notes, and so on down to $50. Just once or twice have I seen these and let alone having them. If I did get a $50 bill, somebody would come along and take it away from me!

Now, that same report shows that $1,000,000 worth of notes have been destroyed or are unaccounted for somehow. That makes me feel better about that dollar bill I lost last week. But speaking about dollar bills, the report says that there is $365,000,000 in dollar bills while there is $1,267,525,337 in $50 bills and $1,423,708,556 in $20 bills. There is only $71,248,656 in $2 bills and these big

Banker Reads Story In Patron's Checks

From The New York Sun and Globe

When the clerk at the bank steps up to the old depositor and congratulates him on marriage, the arrival of an infant heir, a promotion at the office or other happenings of which he supposedly knew nothing it does not necessarily mean private investigators have been at work. It is merely the story of the check book.

The life of the depositor with its tragedies and successes is all written in the monthly vouchers that pass through the hands of the banker and the clerk reads it as though it was a serial story. When a rather large check to a jeweler is found in the monthly batch of checks belonging to the young man with the steadily rising account, the banker smiles. It means an engagement ring.

Mark hesitated. Goodkind had turned back to Goodkind. Mark looked at him as though he had been convinced of his madness. Then, shrugging his shoulders, he stride out.

The slam of the door touched a spark to the alert Goodkind. "Well, I'll be damned!" he exploded. Goodkind laughed. "He won't come back," Goodkind continued half-angry. "Not one in ten would come back."

"All right," said Daniel genially. "That coat cost $20. If one in ten comes back, we've made a man for $200. Isn't it worth the price?" "Maybe," said Goodkind, without conviction. "If a man's got the price, have you?"

"That's what I wanted to ask you. I'm in need of money and my father—"

"Your father understood you well enough to leave you only an income. I foolishly turned over some principal to you and you threw away $20,000. You could have had a big salary and you threw that away. You're an utter damned waster—if you're no worse."

"What do you mean—worse?" Daniel asked with a frown.

"You'll find out what I mean. You've had my son's wife down here, haven't you?"

"Once or twice."

"Or three times—or a dozen. He knows."

"I've asked her not to come again. And he's asked her—but she comes when she likes. She's in love with you—God knows what woman see in your kind of a man. There was Pearl Hennig."

"Please," Goodkind lifted a hand in protest.

"Oh, my son told me," continued Goodkind. "And I hear—in the neighborhood—that you're worse women than that running in here. Women of the streets."

"Not many," said Daniel calmly. "They're welcome but they don't come."

"Well, that's your business. And if your neighbors get sick of having a resort of this kind in their midst, and drive you out, that's your business, too. But my son's wife—"

"Is her business," Daniel interrupted.

"And his," came back Goodkind. "Only Jerry's in no condition to settle the matter. He's broken down from worry and overwork and you're partly responsible. That puts it up to me. This is a final warning. If you see Clara again I'll act. That's all. Good night." He picked up his hat.

"Oh, Mr. Goodkind," Daniel woke, as if from a reverie. "How about the money?"

"You've had what's coming to you."

"But that's nothing. I pay half that for these houses and I've some debt fixing them up."

"With baths and tennis courts?"

"People must have baths."

"These dirty immigrants," Goodkind stormed.

"The dirtier they are, the more they need them," Goodkind smiled. "I want to show them how to live—and show other people that you don't have to have a pippen to make a profit."

"Are you making a profit?" asked Goodkind scornfully.

"Enormous," answered Goodkind enthusiastically. "And to go on I've got to have $22,000."

"Oh, is that all?" scoffed the visitor. "You want $22,000 to go on making a fool of yourself. Well, you won't get it."

"Not even as an advance?" pleaded Daniel.

"Not a penny."

"Don't drive me to—" Goodkind paused.

"To what?"

"To ask for an accounting," said Daniel, rather at a loss.

Goodkind stared at him in amazement.

"To ask for—what?" he thundered.

"Now, listen to me. I've stood in line going to stand. You're run amuck. You're become dangerous to yourself—and me—and the neighborhood. You're going to stop it, and you're going to stop it now."

"That's your mistake," said Daniel, still tranquil.

"Is it? A year ago you gave me 24 hours to sign a paper, and I did it, and it cost me $2,000,000. Tonight I give you 30 minutes to shut up this place and quit seeing my daughter, and if you don't do it—"

"As I won't," said the unperturbed figure.

"And then?" Goodkind didn't understand.

"Then we'll file a petition to have you declared incompetent."

Goodkind banged his stick on the floor for emphasis and started for the door.

"You don't mean that," said Daniel, rather helplessly. "You don't mean that because I'm trying to help—"

"Help—whom?" returned Goodkind, wheezing. "Strangers and street women and general riffraff. And you don't even help them—because nobody can. And if you could and did, how in the name of God would that help the community? If I think you're still ranting down here in half an hour, I'll say you're crazy and I'll prove it." He moved toward the door. "Think it over."

Goodkind reached for the knob as the door was swung open from the other side. Goodkind looked a step to admit a tall, neatly dressed, brawny man.

"Excuse me," said the intruder, politely.

Goodkind glowered at the man, then his face half-lighted with recognition.

"Haven't I seen you somewhere before?" he said reflectively.

The man turned to answer.

"Yes, I think so," he said. "My name's Umanski."

"Umanski?" Goodkind repeated. Then he remembered. "You're not the Pole who came to my house last year with a delegation?"

"Yes," said Umanski, quietly.

"Well, I'll be—" Goodkind surveyed him in surprise.

"Mr. Goodkind, tell me stay in New York," the Pole explained. "He's teach me English and find me good job. I'm work eight hours on the docks and six on myself now."

Goodkind said nothing, just reached for the door. Goodkind, idly filling his pipe at the mantelpiece, broke in.

"Mr. Goodkind," he said. "Umanski has an invention. If you'll see it—"

"I'll see you in half an hour," came the answer and the door closed.

CHAPTER XVII
Cinderella

Umanski's eyes, minus the hatred they once held, but still steady and serious, had been turned intently on Goodkind as he talked.

"What's he doing down here?" asked Umanski with certain anxiety.

"He says I'm crazy and he's going to shut up this place," Daniel smiled as he dropped into a chair with the relaxation of one tired. "Oh, come, he won't."

"Don't be too sure," said the Pole thoughtfully.

"Nonsense," returned Goodkind. "I made him angry. And somebody told him a lot of lies."

"Somebody told a good many people lies," said Umanski. "Yesterday I heard a man say you run this place to—get women."

"Who said that?" Daniel looked up seriously.

"A top named Malduca."

"Oh, yes," Daniel relaxed again. "I took his daughter in here once, for a week, until he got sober."

"There's a good many like that," pursued the other.

"Not so many."

"Enough to make trouble. Why not carry a pistol?"

"It's generally men with pistols who get shot," said Goodkind with quiet rejection.

"One of them fellows get you—"

Goodkind put him off with a gesture as Mary Margaret came into the room.

"I suppose you ain't had any supper," she said with a motherly air. Grubby had followed her in with a tray and the girl, leaning on her crutches, transferred the cargo to the table in front of Daniel.

Umanski drew out a pocketbook and came alongside.

"I brought you some money," he said. "My boss he give me another raise. He gonna make me boss after while. So I like to begin to pay back what you lend me."

Goodkind waved him aside.

"Wait till you're sent for your family," he said, making no move to accept the proffered bills.

HIGH SCHOOL GAME
WITH OSHKOSH MAY DECIDE GRID RACE

East Green Bay Will Be Only
Obstacle To Appleton If
Locals Win Today

Appleton high school squad left for Oshkosh Saturday morning determined to beat the high school eleven of that city and thereby win a chance to battle East Green Bay for the valley conference grid championship next week. If Coach Davidson's charges come off victors Saturday, and if East Green Bay humbles West, the two victors will be the only school which still have clean slates. They are scheduled to meet at East Green Bay next Saturday in the last game of the season.

The only defeat suffered by Appleton this year was handed the squad by Marinette high school, which is not in the valley conference. Wilson started the season with only two men, who had previous experience on the chalkmarked field, and neither of year. However, he drilled the new, these had been on the first string last material at hand into shape, and in spite of the fact that his string has been outwitted in practically every game played, the youngsters have fought their way to the front rank and are determined to hold their place.

OSHKOSH HAS POOR RECORD

Oshkosh has lost every conference contest so far. Last Saturday Ford du Lac won by a safety, defeating the Oshkosh aggregation, 2 to 0, after Oshkosh had lost the ball within a few yards of the Ford du Lac goal line on a fumble. Oshkosh is considered more or less of an unknown quantity therefore, and many fans believe that given an even break, that team would be more than a match for Appleton.

Bowling, flashy Appleton quarter, directs the attack of his mates Saturday, and either Banderob or Johnson oppres him on the Oshkosh squad. Captain Hotchkiss is generally conceded to be the most dangerous man on the Oshkosh team. He is a veteran of several years' staffing, and shows his experience in the efficiency with which he fills fullback position.

LAWRENCE ELEVEN
PLAYS WATERTOWN
COLLEGE SATURDAY

Blue And White Conceded Big Edge Over Northwestern
Grid Squad

Coach "Cub" Buck and his Lawrence gridgers boarded the train early Saturday morning for Watertown, where they play Northwestern in one of the three final games of the football season. Buck went most of his time during the week on strengthening his line, which, although it staged quite a recovery in the Ripon contest last week, was still weak in spots, and did not play up to the standard of the all star backfield. He had also to develop a new fullback to replace Grignon, who is out of the game with a badly swollen leg. Olsson has been chosen to fill that position in Saturday's battle.

Last year Lawrence defeated the Northwestern college eleven, 69 to 0, using most of the second string throughout the game. The Watertown school is said to have a better squad this season than it has had in years, but nevertheless, Lawrence is expected to carry off a decisive victory.

OF FAMOUS COACHES

BY CHARLEY MORAN
Coach Centre College
The first part of the formation is known as the square or box formation, the backs shifting into the position they run from.
The shift is made by turning on the right foot and stepping with with left foot, then a jump. Backs 1 and 4 cover as 3/4 yards while backs 2 and 3 cover only 2 yards. The backs should be in a position to start as soon as both feet are squarely on the ground. The play should be so timed that every man will be in his proper position ready to start.

Having completed the first part of the formation, the backs are in the position shown in the above diagram. No. 1 back gets the ball on a direct pass from center.

Minnesota's Rising Stars

At the University of Minnesota the Spaulding football system aims at the continual development of new players, any of whom may become team regulars if their team mates fail

MINNESOTA DAILY
RILED AT GERBER
DISBARMENT RULE

University Paper Ridicules Big Ten, Ruling On Use Of Sport Knowledge

By Associated Press
Minneapolis, Minn.—The Minnesota Daily student newspaper at the University of Minnesota, in an article on Friday entitled the Big Ten ruling which, it said, forbids an athlete from "using his knowledge of athletics for financial gain" in discussing the barring of E. C. Gerber, star Wisconsin tackle.

Gerber, it was charged, had taught swimming at the La Crosse, Wis., Y M. C. A. and it was on these grounds that he was declared ineligible.

"For such a perversion of purpose," the Daily declares, "a man, of course, should not only be barred from playing football, but he deserves far worse punishment. He deserves dismissal from school, the scorn of his friends, the curse of his enemy, yes, he should even be quartered and hung, burned in oil, or shot by a firing squad."

Perhaps Abramson will be disqualified next because he won a $1 prize when he was in the sixth grade by finishing first in the two year dash. Possibly Martinson, while in primary school, threw a baseball further than his competitors and won a 50 cent prize. If so, he may be in danger of being declared ineligible.

"The moral of all this—hang your clothes on a hickory limb but don't go near the water. If you must earn your way through school do not try to do it honestly and fairly as Gerber did. No, simply matters by getting some wealthy alumnus to pay your way. Athletics must be purged."

ILLINOIS FAVORED TO BEAT WISCONSIN

Crowd Of 25,000 Expected To Witness Contest At Urbana

By Associated Press
Urbana, Ill.—More seriously handicapped by losses in his line and back field than at any other time this season, Wisconsin Saturday stakes its title aspirations against those of Illinois in their crucial game at the Champaign stadium.

The Dagers are at a disadvantage in man power compared to the Illini because of the ineligibility of Gerber, Big tackle, and the injury of Schneider, quarterback, and Harris, the plunging halfback. Benton is likely to fill Gerber's shoes, with Williams, Freshman player or last year, at quarterback. Harris, with an injured knee, may be able to start. Illinois has a squad intact from its battle with Chicago last week. The Illini, playing before their fathers on "Daddy day" were counted on to put up an excellent exhibition of football. The whole team was out to show the ducks that they would eliminate Wisconsin and keep a lead for a championship.

The unpleasantness that appeared for a time after the disqualification of Gerber has largely disappeared. Explanations from Illinois that the information that resulted in the Badger tacks' ineligibility did not come from Urbana, and assurances from Wisconsin that the baseless rumors concerning Illinois players were not started by Wisconsin, have served to clear up the situation.
Illinois has a decided edge over the Wisconsin aggregation, according to experts.
It is expected that 25,000 will witness the game.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Playing their first game with a non-collegiate team since 1922, the University of Michigan football team met the Quantico Marines Saturday on Perry field. With 1,000 marines in the stands and the marines band furnishing music, Michigan football followers were treated to one of the most colorful spectacles ever seen on the Wolverine field.
Included among those who witnessed the game were Secretary of the Navy Denby, a former Michigan football player, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Governor Groesbeck, Senator James Couzens and Henry Ford. Michigan's team took the field with a record of no defeats for the season while the Marines had suffered but one reverse, their first game of the season.

CONLEY-MONAHAN BOUT
ON FOND DU LAC CARD

Fond du Lac—Jack Brunkhorst has secured the signatures of Roy Conley, the fighting parson and Jack Monahan of Milwaukee for a ten round battle at the armory in this city on Nov. 29.

Conley is rated as one of the comers in the fight game and has a string of victories as long as a Standard Oil stock dividend while Monahan needs no introduction here, having appeared in the windup of the last show.

Brunkhorst will offer a card of four hours and is now engaged in working on the semi, preliminary and opener.

MILWAUKEE LOSES.
33-0, TO OSHKOSH
NORMAL GRID TEAM

Upstate Eleven Scores Almost
At Will Against Cream
City Mentors

Milwaukee—Displaying a strong offense combined with sufficient defense, the Oshkosh Normal school eleven, leader in the normal conference race, defeated the Milwaukee Normal school team 33 to 0 at the Milwaukee Normal field Friday afternoon.

Oshkosh started scoring in the first quarter when Schweers went over for a touchdown after a series of long end runs and short line smashes brought the ball within five yards of the goal.

Coach Hancock's well trained eleven outplayed Milwaukee at every stage. Williams, star halfback of Oshkosh, was the outstanding star. His long end runs and line smashes brought him to victory. Williams at one stage of the game, broke loose off a right tackle smash and, eluding the secondary defense, ran ninety yards before he was stopped by the five tacklers.

He registered one of the five touchdowns scored by the winners. Jerede, Curtis and Schweers each tallied one. A crowd of 3,000 witnessed the tussle which was Milwaukee's annual homecoming clash. Oshkosh substitutes were used with regularity. Coach Downer of the locals, being handicapped by the scarcity of reserves. His regulars were practically exhausted when the first half ended with Oshkosh leading by a score of 13 to 0.

The strong Oshkosh eleven never stopped scoring until the whistle blew. Oshkosh's passing and Jensen's proving proved too much for the normal team and before long this continuation completed many passes which helped build up the large score.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Dame Rumor has it that Tad Jones is through at Yale when the football season ends. According to the reports, Jones got into a quarrel with the board of directors during the summer vacation and the Army last week. The board wanted to keep some of the Bulldog's suit under cover but Jones ordered his quartermaster to step on 'er hard and cut things wide open. As a result the Cadets got their worst trimming in years but the Yale coach despite the fact that his team got the 'A' honor, is under fire for disobeying orders.

Red Grange's friends at Illinois are having a fit over the attempted muck-making which started at Madison. They claim that the Wisconsin undergraduates have ruined his 'rep' as an athlete. This is all bunk. If Grange is as clean as his followers paint him, all the mud in the world won't do him any harm. A story from Urbana has it that detectives have been sent to Madison to attempt to run down the yarn. Fine chance. It would be like finding a needle in the haystack.

The ever efficient board of control of the W. I. A. A. has ruled that there won't be any such thing as a state scholastic football championship. This is all tennymory. Why make Wisconsin different from every other state in the Union? It is our hunch that a thorough house-cleaning of the athletic board would be a benefit to all concerned. Times have changed and it is high time that some of the old fashioned members gave way to the younger blood that will bring the situation up to date. Why let school politics cut down the sport morale?

While on the subject of the board of control, we see that West Alis 'High has gone into the courts in an attempt to make the scholastic sport cars come to time. This, of course, is rather a novel proceeding but it is being watched throughout the state. West Alis is blamed for a year for some alleged violation of the rules. The school was not even given a chance to present its side of the case. Maybe John Law will crimp the authority of the board of control. Here's hoping.

High Building Costs Leading To Demand For Smaller Houses

Average Earner Cannot Continue To Pay High Rents Or Prohibitive Prices Now Asked Necessarily For Homes

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—The day of the small house is dawning, according to Roger W. Babson in a statement on the trend of the building industry. "There is no question that some day the cost of building will be much less than it is now—the same as it is now about 15 to 20 per cent less than it was in 1920," says the statistician. "The time will come when instead of talking about the poor tenant, our sympathies will be enlisted in the cause of the landlord. Every student of fundamental business statistics recognizes this situation. The point, however, which is important is whether or not this movement will come about suddenly or whether it will be spread out over a period of years. My own studies strongly suggest the longer and more gradual movement. There are two principal reasons:

OUT OF REACH
"The first is that with all the new dwellings built during the past four years the greater part have been priced far out of reach of the great majority of people. In fact some figures worked out by my organization show that less than 10 per cent of the people can afford to buy the so-called 'moderate priced' dwelling built today. Some, to be sure, have tried to and may get along all right until they strike reverses. The average family, however, cannot afford to give more than one week's pay out of very month for rent. Less than 10 per cent of the heads of families in the United States make more than $50 a week. Check up the cost of the houses built lately in your community and see how many of them can be rented profitably for less than $50 a month. Hence, when one talks about the saturation point in dwelling houses he must take into account the price zones considered. The saturation at present prices apparently is rapidly being approached, but as soon as an other 15 per cent or 20 per cent cut in building costs is put into effect an entirely new group of prospective homeowners is reached.
"The next point is that building costs can be reduced when the necessity arises. The only reason prices of building materials and building labor did not decline as much as the average of other things was because the demand was sufficient without it. That is merely the natural working of economic law. No one should be blamed for not charging less than the market price. On the other hand, as necessity arises, the cost of building can and will be cut. If prices today were at an irreducible minimum and demand were falling off, there would be more for the building industry to worry about.

NO SUDDEN CRASH
"The chance of a sudden crash of either in building costs or real estate values, therefore, is small. The movement, on the contrary, will be far more likely to carry out the appearance of a series of steps. We had one big step down in 1921, followed by a partial advance. Before long another step probably will be in order. General business as reflected in the Baby-schmear is running at 15 per cent below normal. The idea, however, that building values are suddenly going to drop to pre-war levels seems as improbable as the view that they will always continue at present high prices.
"It is highly important, however, that those who are interested in new building recognize the trend and work with it. The greatest opportunities during the coming year will be in building lower priced houses, not high priced ones. What is most needed today is a house within reach of the great 90 per cent of prospects. Necessity is the mother of invention. Some day we shall probably look back on the high cost of building of today as the source of tremendous benefit because of the economies and improvements in construction methods it will have caused. If present indications are reliable the next few years will bring forth some remarkable changes in the customs and methods of building houses. If a builder is to keep a continuous flow of new business, he must lead in this procession with the chief aim of producing homes for the great majority. Every 10 per cent that the cost of attractive homes can be reduced will increase the field possible prospects by 500,000 to 1,000,000 people.

INVESTOR'S CHANCE
"From the investor's point of view the present situation in the building industry suggests three things.
"Earnings of the industrial concern supplying the building industry will depend during next few years upon whether or not the builders grasp their present opportunities. The situation should be watched carefully by those interested in the securities of this group of building supply concerns.
"The investment builder faces the opportunity directly. There is little question but he will profit both by turning his attention to developments along the line of groups of less expensive houses than by continuing his activities in the higher price fields.
"Finally, the average investor has an opportunity in well located suburban land. Thousands upon thousands of modest homes will be built during the next few years. The automobile has broken the transit limitation which has heretofore bound our cities. The trend will be in favor of suburbs and the investor who puts a part of his funds in well selected suburban property at a fair price, judged on present levels, should profit during the next few years."

OLDEST PROFESSOR UP ON LATE FADS

Dr. Charles F. Kroeh Has Interesting Views On Modern Practices

Hoboken, N. J. — For 54 years Dr. Charles Frederick Kroeh has been a professor, spending 52 years of the years here at Stevens Institute of Technology.

In that time he has earned his A. M., Sc. D., among numerous other degrees, and the reputation of being one of the oldest and most highly esteemed educators in the country. He has trained more than 2500 students. He has written numerous text books, memoirs, scientific and technological reports. He has been one of the pillars of Stevens, rambling, old-fashioned structure, where men and boys come to learn how to dam up waterfalls and build bridges over 'em.

And never, never, except for an occasional stenographer, or some body's private secretary, has there been a flutter of petticoats down its halls.

"Highly," said we to ourselves, "here's a veteran professor in a musty, venerable, old school. We'll tell him a few things."

"What," we demanded, seeking out Professor Kroeh in his office, "do you think of the flapper?"

Professor Kroeh settled his beard above his waistcoat and beamed. "The flapper, my dear young woman," he returned, "is a work of art. For pictorial purposes she is far superior to the girls of 1911."
"He DID know what a flapper was. We were crestfallen but endeavored not to show it.
"Well, then," we queried, "what about 'Yes, We Have No Bananas'?"
"That song," returned the professor, "is only slightly more silly than 'Sally in Our Alley' and some others that I used to sing when I was a boy."

"Do you play Mah Jong?"
The professor looked bored.
"I understand the rules of the game but raising chickens is more to my fancy."

"You attend the modern dances, of course?"
"Oh, yes," said the professor, "not you understand, that I take part in them any more. This jumping up and down like a wooden Indian is to my mind, very poor taste. The Blue Danube is my idea of a real dance."

We were getting desperate.
"How do you like," we queried, "this new 'la garconne' bob?"
The professor suppressed a yawn.
"Oh," he said, "you mean that peculiar hair dress clipped short at the back and puffed out over the ears that the girls are wearing? The waitress who brought me my luncheon the other day had here done that way and I must say it was quite becoming."

We made one last desperate effort.
"Did you know," we demanded hoarsely, "that Fanny Brice had her nose altered?"
The professor rallied.
"No," he cried delightedly, "no, really."
"Yes," we shouted. We cavorted. We capered. We beamed on the professor. At last we'd been able to tell him something!

OLDEST PORTAGE-CO WOMAN, 102, IS DEAD

Stevens Point—Central Wisconsin and Portage-co lost their oldest resident in the death of Mrs. Catherine Gruna, who passed away at her home in Alban township, near here, at the age of 102 years. She had been a widow for a year her husband, Andrew Gruna, dying at the age of 100. Mrs. Gruna seldom needed a doctor's care and except for the loss of her sight had been in good health. She was a native of Poland but has lived in this county for half a century.

Davis And Davis Battle May Be Campaign Issue

Washington — Firing one Davis by abolishing the title under which his job was held, and hiring another Davis to fill the same job under another title, promises to involve Secretary of Interior Hubert Work in an investigation which may become in the west, one of the important issues in the 1924 campaign.

Shortly after his transfer to the Interior Department, Work "discharged" Arthur P. Davis, director of the Reclamation Service, who for 40 years had been a government employee, rising from a $120-a-year job as topographer to head of the Reclamation Service at $7500. The explanation was that what the service needed was not an engineer and reclamation expert, but a "business man."

Then it was discovered Davis couldn't be let out on such grounds. His civil service status protected him in his job except on proof of incompetency or unfaithfulness, and no such grounds existed. Work finally solved the question by having the office of director abolished and the new office of "commissioner of reclamation" created.

To this "commissionership" he appointed former Governor David W. Davis of Idaho, who admittedly wasn't a reclamation expert but who was said to be a competent "business man."

When friends of the former director protested at the procedure, a "fact finding commission" was appointed by Work to inquire into the needs of reclamation and the status of reclamation projects.

Hardly had the work of this commission got under way when the directors of the Society of Civil Engineers filed a vigorous protest against the change from Director Arthur Davis to Commissioner David Davis, charging that the whole maneuver was a subterfuge to put a competent engineer out and a politician in. Other protests stated that Commissioner Davis' record as a "business man" was chiefly notable for his having organized a bank that went broke.

Davis versus Davis seems certain to be the most interesting phase of the situation to be combed by the commission seeking facts. The manner of Director Davis' dismissal and the manner of "Commissioner" Davis' elevation to office merely set the stage for the conflict of charge and countercharge that seem certain to force a further inquiry by Congress itself.

And while the fight goes on Director Arthur Davis is acting technical adviser to the pecuniary arbitration committee hearing certain claims British firms have brought against the United States.

WAGE EARNERS IN AMERICA PROSPER

Industrial Workers Enjoy Period Of Prosperity Greater Than In 1920

By Associated Press
New York — American wage-earners are now enjoying a period of prosperity, greater even than the so-called "peak period" of 1920, according to a statement issued by the National Industrial Conference Board, which recently concluded a research into wages and the cost of living.
Asserting that 1920 "need no longer be considered the most recent high-water mark for workers in industry," the investigators point out that many plants have announced increases of 10 to 15 per cent.
"It is true," the report continues, "that wages were at their highest levels in 1920, but the cost of living was also higher at that time."
Later, the investigators find, the cost of living declined more rapidly than earnings and in 1922 wages again began to rise, "first as a result of longer hours worked, and later because of wage increases."

The report, based on a study of conditions in plants employing 600,000 workers, estimates the comparative excess of rising wages over rising living costs as between 17 and 15 per cent greater in May, 1923, than in June 1920, using July, 1914—the last pre-war month—as a working basis.

"The wage-earner was better off in May, 1923, than during the 'peak' months of 1920," it observes in conclusion. "Wages in May were fast approaching the 'peak' levels while the cost of living was considerably below the 'peak' and in consequence 'real earnings' rose well above the former 'peak' figures."

AGED RECLUSE BURNS TO DEATH WITH SHACK

Antigo—The charred remains of Henry Gilhausen, 82 years old, bachelor recluse, were found in the ruins of his one story frame house in the town of Rolling. Only a part of the torso was left. The position indicated that the man had been in bed or in a chair undoubtedly asleep, when the flame eaten supports gave way and the upper portion of the house fell into the cellar. The coroner and district attorney, on visiting the place, found nothing to indicate foul play or incendiarism. John Gilhausen, a nephew of Henry Gilhausen, was burned to death last winter while on a hunting trip.

SWEDISH GENERALS OPPOSE REDUCTION OF NATIONAL ARMY

Conference Shows Military Chiefs Do Not Depend on League to Keep Peace

Stockholm — Sweden's membership in the League of Nations has not eliminated the necessity of effective preparations for war, and the plan for a drastic reduction of the Swedish army, recently recommended by the Riksdag Defense Revision Committee, does not provide such preparedness. This is the official opinion of the commission of 18 Swedish generals, after a recent conference.

In case of attack Sweden is to receive armed assistance from other members of the League, but until such assistance arrives, it was pointed out, the country must be prepared to resist the first shock. Furthermore, Sweden might, in some other case, be called to render military assistance, it was argued, as, for instance, if Finland were attacked by Russia.

The commission of Swedish generals urges the maintenance of the present number of army units, together with the retention of general compulsory service. It recommends that every conscript be trained during a period of 14 to 16 months, and that the age limit for liability to military service be extended to include the forty-fifth year. More complete practical and academic training is recommended for both commissioned and non-commissioned officers. The generals recognize the importance of civilian aviation forces in case of war, and therefore recommend state support to aviators in commercial and other non-military service.
